Oldcastle Precast Employees Volunteer at the Fredericksburg Regional Food Bank

FREDERICKSBURG, Va. (OCTOBER 2017) – The act of "giving back" means different things to different people. For some, it is a monetary issue, while others might view it as a matter of giving their time. However, for employees of Oldcastle Precast Fredericksburg, giving back to the community manifested itself at a local food bank on October 7, 2017.

For approximately 3 hours, employees packed boxes that would later be distributed to low income seniors and individuals with disabilities. The Oldcastle Precast team assisted in the placement of canned goods into boxes as they moved down an assembly line. Planned for dispersal during the month of October, over 1,488 boxes were packaged. This volunteer opportunity was of particular importance to the Fredericksburg team, as many communities surrounding their plant are supported by the food bank.

“With all the tragedy of the recent hurricanes, we sometimes lose focus of the fact there are still people in our own communities who are struggling and in need of food and other assistance,” said Larry Ramsburg, plant manager of Oldcastle Precast Fredericksburg. “It is amazing to see the impact that a few volunteers, donating a couple hours of their weekend, have on feeding families in need within our community. Thanks to all of our Oldcastle Precast family who participated in this much-needed service to our community.”

Oldcastle Precast Sales Manager Karen Brock commented, “Acting on an Oldcastle Precast Core Value of helping our communities, we joined with other local volunteers working together for the common good. It’s amazing what we can accomplish in the first two hours of a day, this quick assembly of care packages will impact many people in need. It is also a privilege to take part in an organized expression of compassion and are glad we took the time to be here.”
